

“THESE WALL DO TALK”

The Bartlett Historical Society and Arts in Bartlett are co-sponsoring an art exhibit entitled “These Walls Do Talk,” from September 6 to September 30, at Bartlett Village Hall Gallery, 2nd Floor, 228 Main St., Bartlett, Monday-Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 PM and Saturday, 9 AM to noon. The public is also invited to a free reception on Tuesday, September 20th, from 5:30-6:45pm.

This exhibit includes art and photos of historic buildings in Bartlett, fifty or more years old. In particular the six 2011 plaqued buildings honored by the Bartlett Historical Society will be featured.

St. Peter Damian Chapel was built in 1950 at 309 E. North Ave and is owned by the Archdiocese of Chicago.

Bartlett Volunteer Fire Department and Fireman’s Hall was built in 1952 at 220 South Main Street.

Craftsman Bungalow at 120 S. Eastern Ave. was built circa 1910 and is owned by Lin and Michael Henricks.

The American Vernacular “Gable-Front-and-Wing” home at 230 W. Oneida, built in 1899, is owned by John & Mary Holm.

The Colonial Revival at 227 W. North Avenue, built in 1918, is owned by Steve and Lisa Troyke.

The Tudor Revival at 110 S. Hickory Ave, built in 1937 is owned by Andy & Nancy Graf.

Other featured buildings include: a collage of Volunteer Fire Dept. photos with a copy of a Chicago Daily Herald article lauding the volunteers for building their own station; the home of E. C. Guild, Bartlett’s first doctor; Banbury Fair; the Humbracht House; a pen an ink drawing of Hoosier Grove School and several others.

For more information, call 630-372-4152, or art@artsinbartlett.org, or www.artsinbartlett.org.

The Tudor Revival at 110 S. Hickory Ave, built in 1937 is owned by Andy & Nancy Graf

The American Vernacular “Gable-Front-and-Wing” home at 230 W. Oneida, built in 1899, is owned by John & Mary Holm

St. Peter Damian Chapel was built in 1950 at 309 E. North Ave and is owned by the Archdiocese of Chicago

The Colonial Revival at 227 W. North Avenue, built in 1918, is owned by Steve and Lisa Troyke

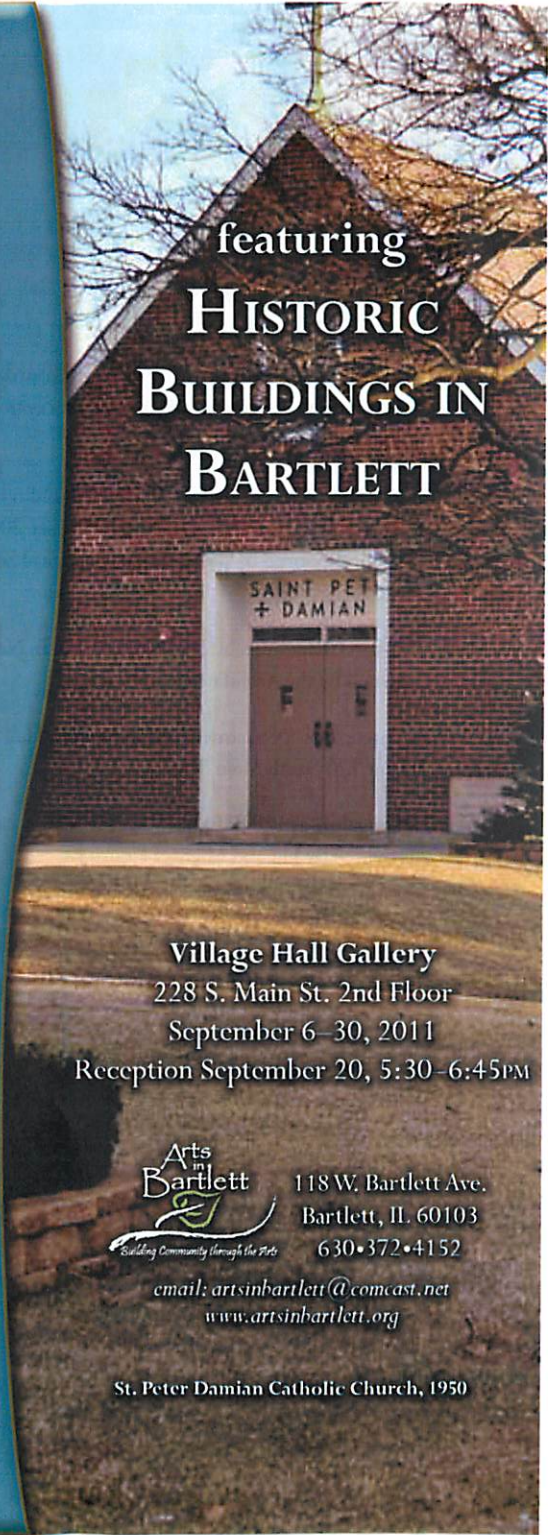

“THESE WALLS DO TALK”

Craftsman Bungalow, 1910

“THESE WALLS DO TALK”

featuring
HISTORIC BUILDINGS IN BARTLETT

Village Hall Gallery
228 S. Main St. 2nd Floor
September 6 – 30, 2011
Reception September 20, 5:30 – 6:45 PM

118 W. Bartlett Ave.
Bartlett, IL 60103
630•372•4152

email: artsinbartlett@comcast.net
www.artsinbartlett.org

St. Peter Damian Catholic Church, 1950